Quality has a history - Quality has a future

At Hermes, we know that high quality coated abrasives are important to your company. In order to prove our commitment to quality, we submitted our company to auditing by one of the leading inspection organizations in the world, TÜV-CERT in March of 1994. Their findings: Hermes meets the demanding quality standards set forth by The International Organization of Standardization (ISO).

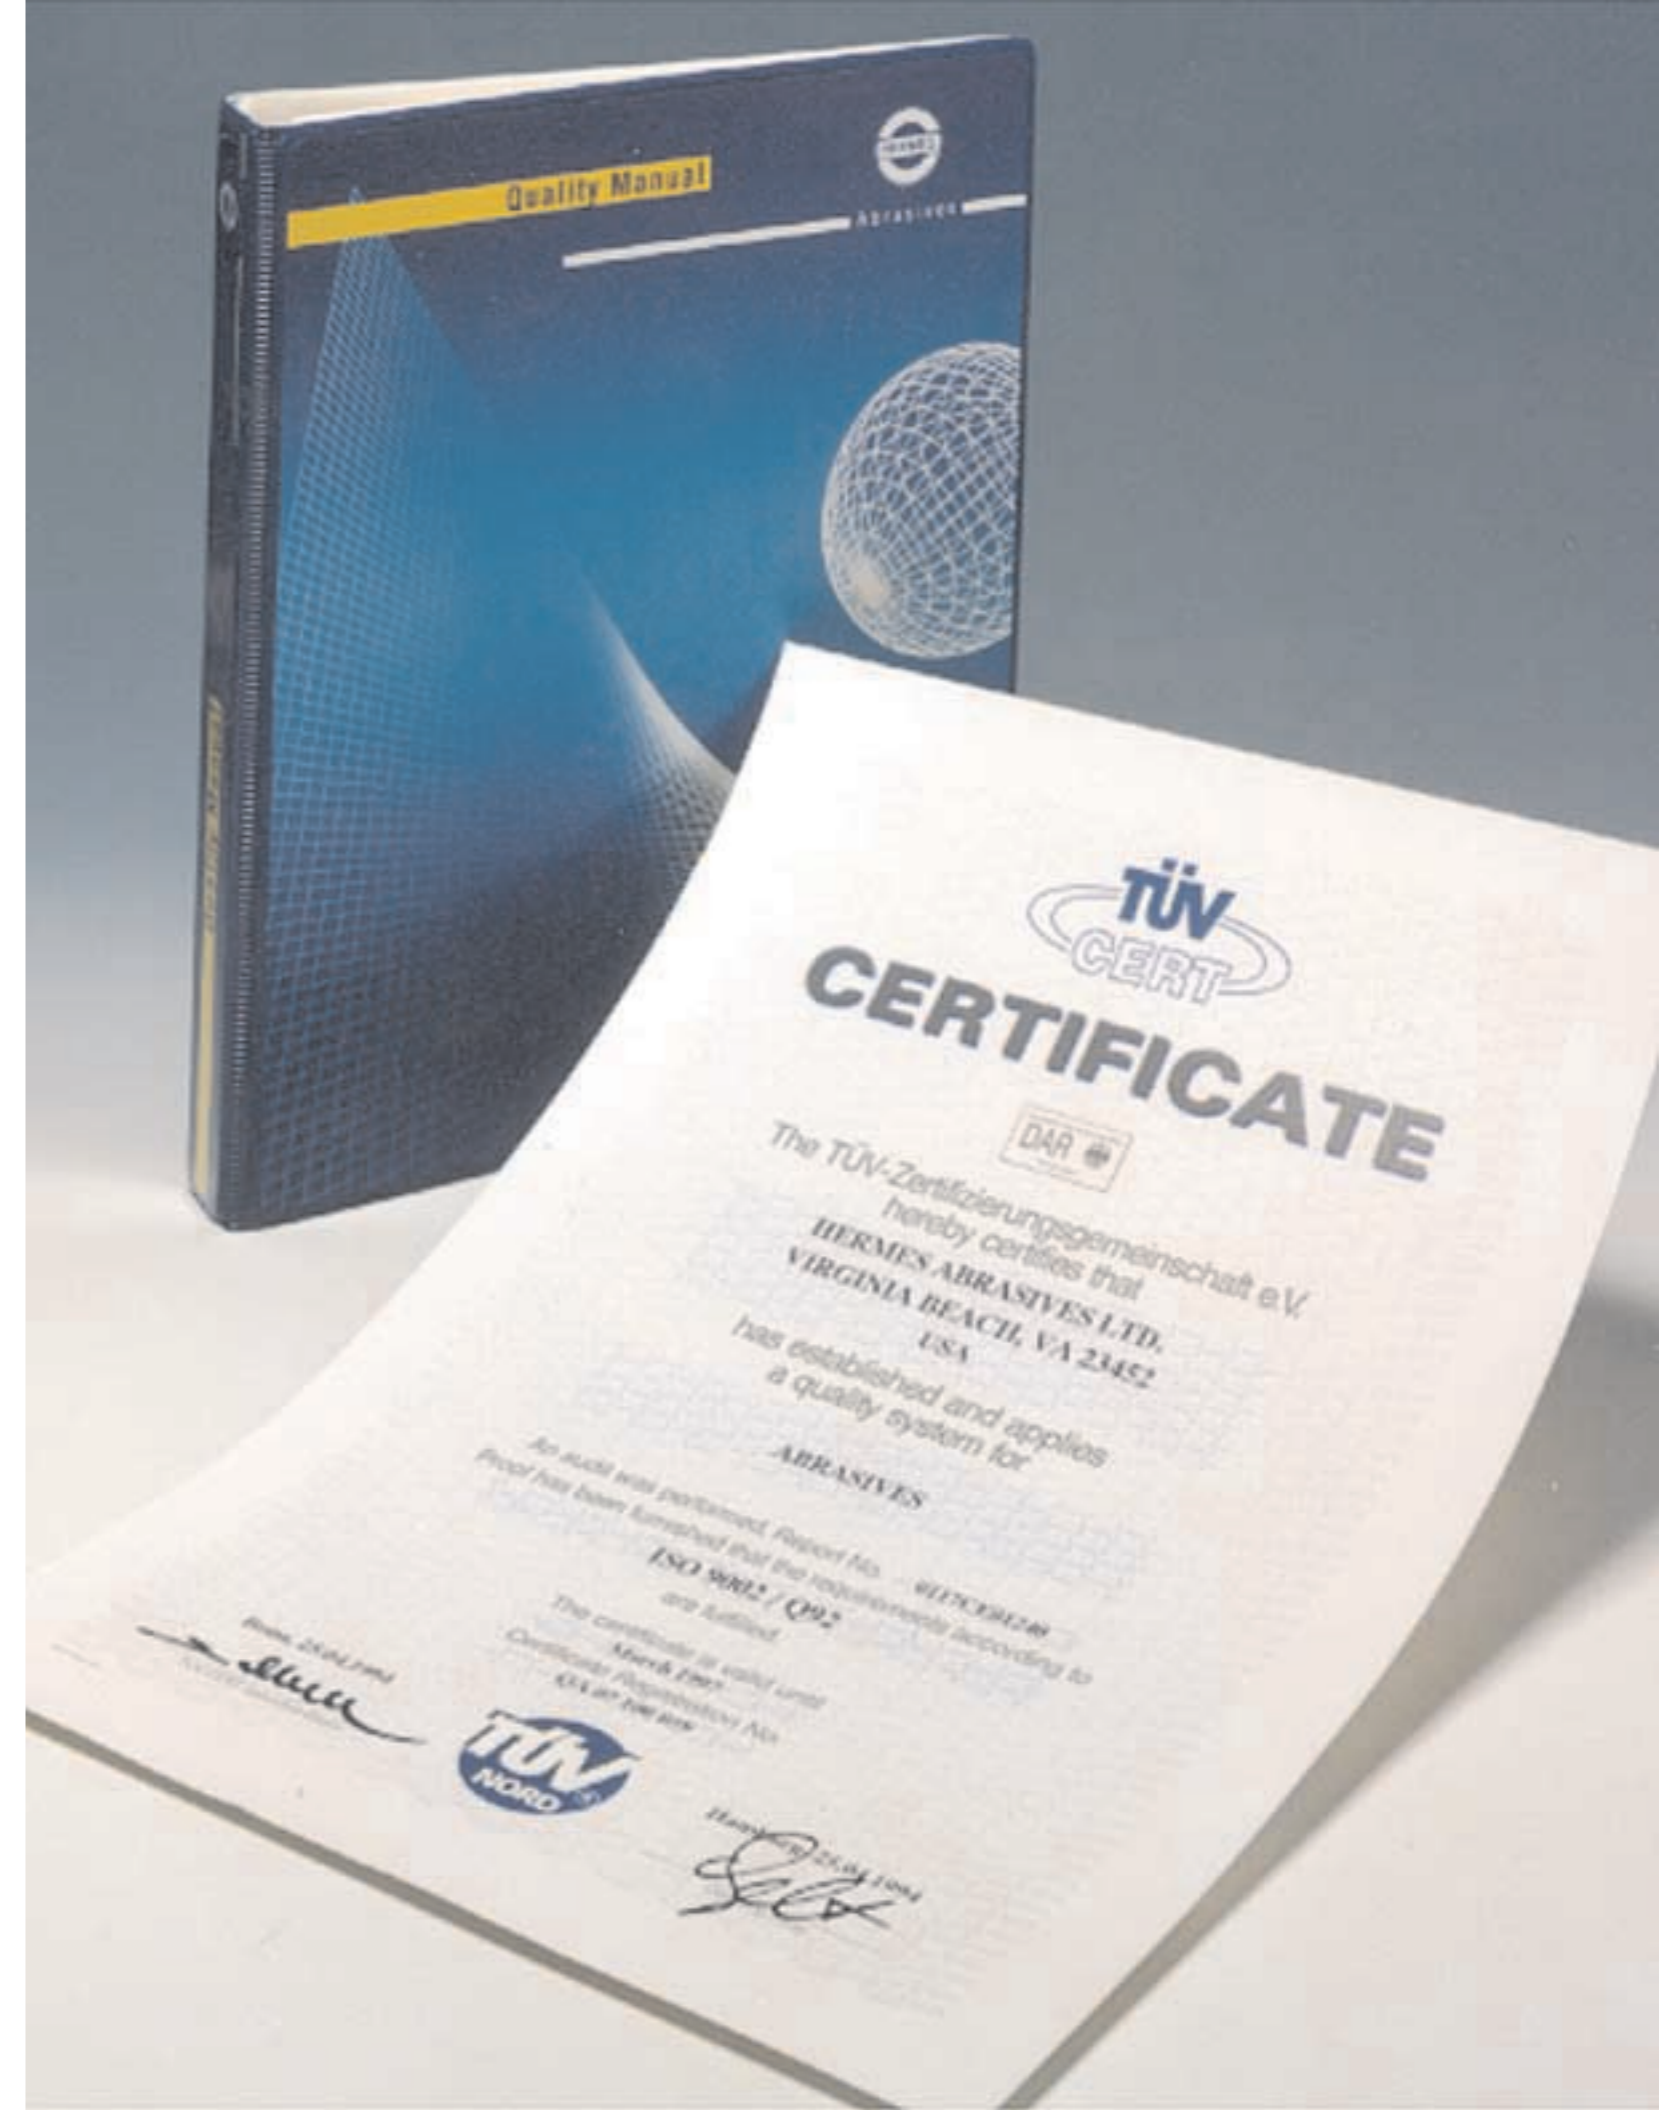

Over a year of planning, teamwork and dedication went into the preparation for certification. Reviews of all current quality manuals, procedures, work instructions, and policies were completed. Control documents were created to ensure that the correct procedures were followed. All of our personnel attended training seminars on ISO 9002.

ISO 9002 Certification is not a one time recognition. Constant quality monitoring and improvement is required. Now certified, we will be audited annually with a complete reevaluation every three years.

Previously, our operation in Hamburg, Germany became the first European abrasives company to receive ISO 9001 Certification, which incorporates the areas of Research and Development into the scope of accreditation.

We are proud of attaining ISO 9002 Certification. This accomplishment not only gives our customers confirmation that they have chosen the right coated abrasive supplier for today, but also the assurance of our continued dedication to quality in the future.

If you want this dedication to quality to work for you,
